Growing Belonging Together

ANNUAL REPORT 2024–2025

a message from the CEO

“At Frazer Center, belonging isn’t just a value, it’s something we grow together, every day.”

This year at Frazer Center has been a powerful reminder that when we come together, belonging grows. From our classrooms to our community programs, I’ve witnessed children, adults, families, and staff discover new ways to learn, connect, and thrive.

We celebrated milestones across all of our programs—more children with disabilities enrolled in our inclusive classrooms, record growth in adult employment opportunities, and expanded access to our gardens and forest.

At the same time, I’ve been honored to bring Frazer’s voice to broader advocacy efforts, ensuring that people with developmental disabilities are represented and included in the conversations shaping Georgia’s future.

None of this would be possible without YOU—our families, partners, donors, volunteers, and friends. Your support fuels the work of inclusion and allows us to dream even bigger for the year ahead.

Together, we are growing belonging in ways that ripple far beyond our campus, and I am excited to see what we will achieve next!

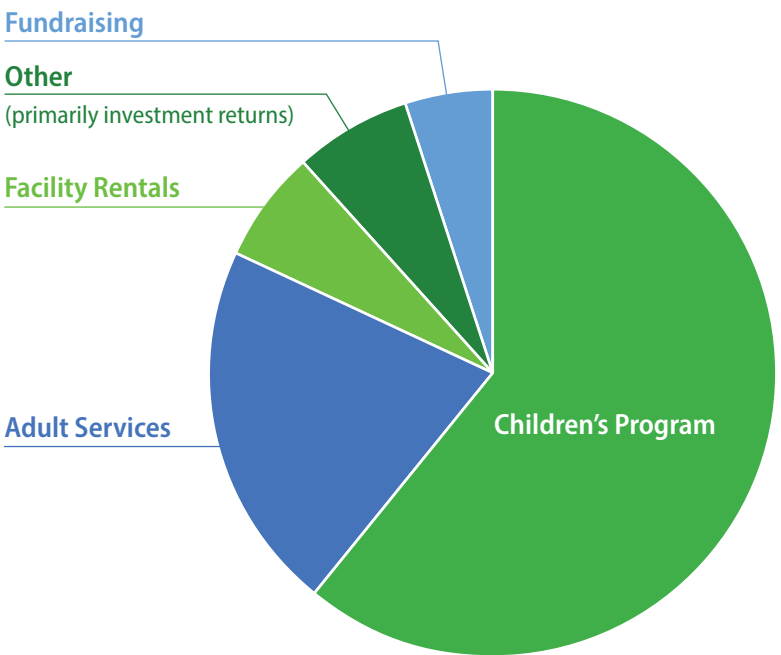

With gratitude,

DeAnna P. Julian

Growing Belonging in the Community

Frazer Center’s adult participants explored new opportunities while strengthening independence, friendships, and community connections.

Thanks to some generous friends of the Frazer Center, we acquired two new vans—expanding our Community Access programs and strengthening our collaborations with cultural, recreational, and service organizations.

“Do I like my job?
The word is not like.
The word is LOVE!”

child development program

Growing Belonging in Every Classroom

Our inclusive early childhood program continued to celebrate individuality by fostering each child’s strengths. Children of all abilities discovered together the joy of learning, growth, and friendship.

“It just brings so much joy to us to see that [our son] is able to form these organic relationships and that his peers not only help and support him when he needs it, but they’re there for him as a friend too.”
—Tim C., Frazer Parent

Highlights

- ◆ Children with disabilities in program ↑ from 5% to 20%
- ◆ 3 teachers hired from our Refugee Intern Program
- ◆ 225,600 hours of learning

cator woolford gardens + frazer forest

Growing Belonging in Nature

With donor and volunteer support, Cator Woolford Gardens continues to be a historic treasure and source of sustainable funding for inclusion and the Frazer Center.

Frazer Forest hosted Trees Atlanta and our monthly volunteers who are committed to our long-term forest restoration project. We also hosted nine weeks of summer day-campers as they discovered new bugs, fungi, and endless wonders while playing in nature.

“We fell in love with the gardens first, and then the mission for the [Frazer Center].”
—Marissa R., Bride

1 NEW TV SHOW filmed in the gardens!

903 SPLASHES in the creek during camp!

Highlights

- ◆ 39 couples supported inclusion by saying “I Do!” at Cator Woolford Gardens
- ◆ 45 unique children attended summer camp in Frazer Forest
- ◆ 561 volunteer hours in Frazer Forest

looking ahead

Growing Belonging into the Future

The year ahead holds exciting opportunities!

We expect to launch our next capital campaign. It’s been over a decade since our previous one, and we are looking to make exciting and needed updates to our 65-year-old building.

We’re dreaming of:

- Expanding therapy facilities
- Adding shared community spaces
- Increasing access to the forest for children and adults of all abilities

WE INVITE YOU to PARTNER WITH US to GROW BELONGING.

Your support makes inclusion possible.

Thank you for helping us grow a community where EVERYONE BELONGS!
